SEPTEMBER MEETING

Esker Davis, daytime supervisor at Station WDTV, will show the film "All West Virginia City of Bridgeport" at the September meeting of the Society. Mr. Davis took the photographs of Bridgeport to make up the film which helped the city win in February 1987, the award as one of the finest cities in the State of West Virginia. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, September 16, in the Stealey-Goff-Vance House, 123 West Main Street in Clarksburg.

ANNUAL TOUR

The annual tour on October 11, 1987, will be a trip to Campus Martius in Marietta followed by dinner at the Blennerhassett Hotel in Parkersburg.

Clarksburg and Marietta were allied in the late 18th and early 19th centuries because there really was nothing between the two settlements. The frontier had run along the Monongahela and West Fork rivers from the start of the Indian Wars in 1774 to 1788, when officers of the American Revolution in Boston formed the Ohio Company and purchased land at the mouth of the Muskingum River in the new Northwest Territory. The officers named their settlement "Marietta" in honor of Marie Antoinette and enclosed it in a fort they labeled "Campus Martius." The frontier moved from the West Fork River to the Ohio River. Between 1788 and 1795 scouts from Campus Martius dressed as Indians ran regular routes through the woods of southeastern Ohio to watch for signs of Indian movement so that the scouts could warn farmers who were working fields of crops outside the walls of Campus Martius.

After danger of Indian attack ended in 1795, Clarksburg and Marietta were two outposts of civilization. People who traveled overland from Marietta to the East followed the "Marietta Road" and made Clarksburg a stop. In October 1805 Aaron Burr in Marietta wrote John George Jackson that he hoped to see him in early November in Clarksburg as Burr traveled to Washington. In 1810 John George Jackson married his second wife Mary Meigs in Marietta. When her father and mother, Return Jonathan and Mary Sophia Meigs, traveled from Marietta to Washington, where Meigs was postmaster general (1814-1817), the Meigses would drive their horse-drawn vehicle to Clarksburg for a visit with the Jacksons before proceeding on to Washington.

The State of Ohio, seeing the historic importance of the first capital of the Northwest Territory, in 1928 built a museum on the site of the original Campus Martius. The State put under roof in the museum the house of Rufus Putnam, superintendent of the Ohio Company and U.S. Surveyor General, a structure familiar to Harrison County drovers who took beeves over the Marietta Road to sell to the New Englanders and familiar to West Fork hunters who sold game to the Marietta settlers and to U.S. soldiers in Fort Harmer across the Muskingum River from Campus Martius. The museum has on display artifacts which once belonged to the Putnams, the Meigses, and the family of General Arthur St. Clair, who was the first governor of the Northwest Territory. Of interest in the summer of 1987 is the fact that General St. Clair was the subject of the first U.S. Congressional investigation after Indians in 1790 had defeated in battle U.S. Army forces under the command of the general.

The Rufus Putnam house is still on its original foundations. In 1953 the State of Ohio moved into the museum the Ohio Company Land Office, where Rufus Putnam issued deeds for 1.5 million acres and where Putnam made the earliest maps of the Northwest Territory. In this office 21-year-old Clarksburger John George Jackson in 1797 received orders and turned in reports as a deputy surveyor for the U.S. Government.

Tour members will board the bus in front of the Stealey-Goff-Vance House at 12:15 p.m. on October 11. After the tour of Campus Martius, the bus will travel to the Blennerhassett Hotel in Parkersburg. The menu for the meal at the hotel is sliced sirloin of beef, London style; appetizer; chef's potato; chef's vegetable; homemade rolls; butter; beverage; and dessert. The bus will return to the Stealey-Goff-Vance House at approximately 9:00 p.m. To make reservations for the tour, use the form included in this newsletter.

NOVEMBER MEETING

Jack Sandy Anderson, historian, author, and past president of the Society, will speak at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, November 18, at the Stealey-Goff-Vance House. His subject will be "Francis Harrison Pierpont."

Francis Pierpont was a native of Marion County and in 1839 was principal of Randolph Academy in Clarksburg. He is called "the Father of West Virginia", for Pierpont at the Wheeling Convention in 1861 suggested the plan whereby a Restored Government of Virginia could give permission for the formation of a new state. Pierpont was named the governor of the Restored Government of Virginia and ran his administration from Alexandria, Virginia, during the hostilities of the War Between the States.

Jack Anderson, an authority on Marion County history, is well versed in the lineage and the early life of Francis Pierpont. Anderson will show the influences that formed the man who was largely responsible for guiding Western Virginia into a new state of West Virginia.

THE COLLECTION

Accessions:

Portrait of Florence Jackson; gift of Caroline Needham Smith, Garden City, New York.

Florence Jackson, daughter of James Madison and Caroline Moore Jackson, died in Clarksburg at age 30 on February 28, 1883. Soon after the death, Caroline Moore Jackson must have engaged an artist to paint a portrait of her daughter, perhaps from a photograph of Florence Jackson. The portrait is signed "Wm Garl [?] Brown, 1884." The oil painting is under glass in an exquisite frame.

After the demise of Caroline Moore Jackson, the painting passed to T. Moore Jackson, brother of Florence Jackson; and then to Florrie Jackson Needham, only child of T. Moore Jackson. Caroline Smith, daughter of Florrie Needham, has owned the portrait since the death of her mother in December 1976.

The portrait is important to a collection dedicated to preserve the history of Harrison County. George Jackson, great grandfather of Florence Jackson was first settler, Virginia legislator, member of the Virginia U.S. Constitutional Convention, U.S. Congressman, Ohio legislator. General John George Jackson, grandfather of Florence Jackson, was Virginia legislator, U.S. Congressman 1802-1817, brother-in-law of President James Madison, U.S. Federal judge, and Clarksburg manufacturer.

Hamilton and Caroline Needham Smith hand delivered the portrait during the time they visited in Clarksburg in June.

Museum hosts and hostesses

The following members of the Society have staffed the museum during the summer visitation hours: Jack Sandy Anderson, Frances Custer, Betty Dakan, Elsie Grant, Charles Gribble, Madge McDaniel, Ruth Runner, Annabel Shreves, Ann Yoke, Aileen Lucas, Mary Stealey.

Hostess chairman Bea Quigley still needs volunteers at the museum on August 28, September 4, and September 27. If you can serve on any of these dates, telephone Bea Quigley, 842-3454, or Madge McDaniel, 842-3073.

PUBLICATIONS

Julia Davis, who moved last spring from Princeton, NJ, to Media, her mother's homeplace near Charlestown, WV, has given the Society permission to republish LEGACY OF LOVE. Ms Davis will write a few pages in a preface to update the book which is a reminiscence of Julia Davis' early years in Clarksburg.

The Society has contracted with McClain Printing Company in Parsons, WV, to print the book. The publisher has set December 1, 1987, for the publication date.
